

CSCB20 Report

By: Harjot Saroya

This assignment was an interesting one to develop however it was very difficult since my partner did not contribute towards it. I continuously asked him to help and he said he would work on it soon however it wasn't until April 5th my partner told me that he was deciding to late withdrawl from the course and he had no intentions on assisting me with the project. We had decided that I would get the student functionality working and he would do the instructor part. I was able to finish most of the student user part as well as building the flask app. Some things I had trouble to get working were things like using JQuery to hide the text box on the user marks screen as well as figuring out why my feedback.html wouldn't link to my /feedback in the app.py